

To: D'Andrea, Michael[DANDREA.MICHAEL@EPA.GOV]
From: The Washington Post
Sent: Sat 1/11/2014 12:04:09 PM
Subject: Saturday Morning Headlines [Jan 11, 2014]

View on the Web.

Saturday, January 11, 2014

NATION

Robert Nugent, priest who ministered to gay Catholics, dies

Father Nugent's ministry officially ended when the Vatican declared it "erroneous and dangerous."
(Emily Langer, The Washington Post)

U.S. veterans agonize over al-Qaeda's resurgence in Iraq

For Americans who fought there and lost comrades along the way, recent developments stoke pain and anger.

(Ernesto Londoño, The Washington Post)

U.S. has deployed military advisers to Somalia

A cell has been stationed in Mogadishu since the fall to advise in operations against al-Shabab.

(Craig Whitlock, The Washington Post)

Chemical spill into W.Va. river spurs closures, concern

Chemical agent spills into Elk River, prompting school and business closures, run on bottled water.

(Lenny Bernstein, The Washington Post)

Obama administration to end contract with IT firm behind HealthCare.gov

This is a breaking news alert. Please visit washingtonpost.com for developments.

(The Washington Post)

More National: Breaking National News & Headlines - Washington Post

LOCAL

Charges dropped against second ex-Navy football player

The decision leaves just one midshipman facing court-martial in the alleged rape of a classmate.

(Annys Shin, The Washington Post)

Lawyer: Way of repaying Montgomery students 'insulting'

Critics don't think the plan to repay special-ed students whose work-study cash was taken is enough.

(Donna St. George, The Washington Post)

McAuliffe raises over $1 million for inaugural bash

Cash came from a wide range of donors both inside and outside of Virginia.

(Rachel Weiner, The Washington Post)

Montgomery planning head to step down; Va. recount likely

A roundup of news from around the region.

(The Washington Post)

New Fairfax County schools budget sparks discussion

Superintendent Karen Garza called for $96 million in cuts but also more funds from a reluctant board.

(T. Rees Shapiro, The Washington Post)

More Post Local: Washington, DC Area News, Traffic, Weather, Sports & More - The Washington Post

POLITICS

Justices to hear juicy dispute

Juice labeling among the eight new cases the court said it would hear.

(The Washington Post)

Supreme Court to take on high-stakes TV dispute

The case, one of eight it accepted Friday, pits traditional broadcasters against upstart Web company.

(Robert Barnes, The Washington Post)

McAuliffe raises over $1 million for inaugural bash

Cash came from a wide range of donors both inside and outside of Virginia.

(Rachel Weiner, The Washington Post)

New N.J. traffic documents show extensive coverup

Gov. Chris Christie's lieutenants neglected furious complaints and told subordinates to stonewall reporters,

(Philip Rucker and Aaron Blake, The Washington Post)

Administration to switch HealthCare.gov contractors

The administration has decided to replace CGI Federal, which created the defect-ridden site, with Accenture.

(Juliet Eilperin and Amy Goldstein, The Washington Post)

More Post Politics: Breaking Politics News, Political Analysis & More - The Washington Post

STYLE

Carolyn Hax: What's so bad about 'running away'?

Readers chat about a letter writer's options after a breakup.

(Carolyn Hax, The Washington Post)

Remembering an earlier theft that unmasked surveillance

The 1971 burglary of an FBI office raised an unprecedented outcry against U.S. tactics.

(Betty Medsger, The Washington Post)

Pacman and Peso release 'Escape to North Korea' video

The D.C.-area rappers raised money to make the trip over the Internet, and were surprised by the country.

(Monica Hesse, The Washington Post)

HBO to renew 'Girls' for fourth season

A reporter criticized writer Lena Dunham for her frequent nakedness in a contentious news conference.

(Max Ehrenfreund, The Washington Post)

Feathered friends in need

Screech owls and other raptors find a temporary home with rehabilitator Suzanne Shoemaker.

(— Kitson Jazynka, The Washington Post)

More Style: Culture, Arts, Ideas & More - The Washington Post

BUSINESS

IT news briefs

BlackBerry plans innovation center in D.C. area; Citrix buys firm to add mobile features.

(The Washington Post)

Judge orders competitive auction for Fisker Automotive

A roundup of business news from around the world.

(The Washington Post)

Target: Millions more customers affected by December data breach

The retailer says other personal information besides payment card data was taken.

(Jia Lynn Yang and Amrita Jayakumar, The Washington Post)

Fed cash cow giving less, but taxpayers skimmed the cream

The Fed made some nifty profits from the bailout and sent billions to the Treasury, but expect less to come.

(Allan Sloan, The Washington Post)

Want to find a great deal? It's looking for you, too.

Firms are helping retailers use smartphones to track customers — and drawing privacy concerns.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

More Business News, Financial News, Business Headlines & Analysis - The Washington Post

SPORTS

TV and radio listings: January 11

(The Washington Post)

Abbott sets U.S. mark in short program

The three-time national champion finishes with 99.86 points at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships.

(Liz Clarke, The Washington Post)

Porter shines for No. 5 Panthers

Senior Trey Porter's dunks punctuate undefeated No. 5 Potomac's come-from-behind victory over Freedom-Woodbridge.

(Joey Lomonaco, The Washington Post)

Neuvirth, Capitals ward off Leafs

Michal Neuvirth makes 32 saves in his first start since Nov. 22 and gets some help from Joel Ward and Alex Ovechkin.

(Katie Carrera, The Washington Post)

Hatcher leads Briar Woods past P. Falls

BOYS' BASKETBALL | Spencer Hatcher's 19-point night helps the Falcons beat Potomac Falls for just the third time in the school's eight-year history.

(Jason Butt, The Washington Post)

More Sports: Sports News, Scores, Analysis, Schedules & More - The Washington Post

TECHNOLOGY

Want to find a great deal? It's looking for you, too.

Firms are helping retailers use smartphones to track customers — and drawing privacy concerns.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

CES 2014: QNX will make your car quieter -- or louder, if you're into that

As the connected car industry gears up, the floor is getting crowded with firms aiming for the smartest rides.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

How noisy neighbors sparked a new big idea for gaming

Some kids playing loud video games led Immerz's Afshar to come up with the Kor-FX sensor vest.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

CES 2014 brought us the future, and it is curved and 'smart'

As the show winds down in Las Vegas what stands out are new TV screens and lots of "smart" tech.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

More Technology News - The Washington Post

WORLD

India expels U.S. envoy in latest retaliation in nanny case

The State Department voices "regret" that India saw a need for the move but hopes it helps end the crisis.

(Rama Lakshmi and Karen DeYoung, The Washington Post)

U.S. veterans agonize over al-Qaeda's resurgence in Iraq

For Americans who fought there and lost comrades along the way, recent developments stoke pain and anger.

(Ernesto Londoño, The Washington Post)

Mexico looks to deep waters to save oil industry

New reforms ending state-owned Pemex's monopoly open door for foreign investment in gulf drilling.

(Joshua Partlow, The Washington Post)

U.S. has deployed military advisers to Somalia

A cell has been stationed in Mogadishu since the fall to advise in operations against al-Shabab.

(Craig Whitlock, The Washington Post)

Israel says it will build new homes in West Bank

A Palestinian negotiator calls the Israeli construction a "slap" to John Kerry's Middle East peace efforts.

(William Booth, The Washington Post)

More World: World News, International News, Foreign Reporting - The Washington Post

EDITORIAL

Our stake in Iraq

U.S. air power and advisers can help in the fight against al-Qaeda.

(James M. Dubik, The Washington Post)

Authoritarian gatekeepers

With control of state-run media, regimes rein in other messages.

(Robert Ortung and Christopher Walker, The Washington Post)

Baseball's challenge

The game has done much to weed out cheaters, but the high stakes require continued vigilance.

(George J. Mitchell, The Washington Post)

A tax-reform plan for the income gap

A higher minimum wage could actually perpetuate unemployment.

(Glenn Hubbard, The Washington Post)

How Chris Christie could survive

Hatred of a bullying media could save the bullying governor.

(Kathleen Parker, The Washington Post)

More Opinions: Washington Post Opinion, Editorial, Op Ed, Politics Editorials - The Washington Post

LIVE DISCUSSIONS

Real Wheels Live

Live online discussion with Real Wheels columnist Warren Brown about car-buying and the auto industry.

(Warren Brown and Lou Ann Hammond, vForum)

Carolyn Hax Live rescheduled for Thursday, January 16

Advice Columnist Carolyn Hax takes your questions and tackles your problems.

(Carolyn Hax, vForum)

Carolyn Hax Live (Thursday, January 16)

Advice Columnist Carolyn Hax takes your questions and tackles your problems.

(Carolyn Hax, vForum)

Trading a Can of Worms for a Crate: Carolyn Hax Live (Friday, January 10)

Advice Columnist Carolyn Hax took your questions and tackled your problems.

(Carolyn Hax, vForum)

The Fix Live

The Fix's Chris Cillizza discusses the latest in political news.

(Chris Cillizza, vForum)

More Conversations: Discussions, Blogs, Debates, Live Q&A's and More - The Washington Post

Follow The Washington Post:

Unsubscribe

©2014 The Washington Post
1150 15th St NW Washington, DC 20071

Help & Contact Info

Privacy Policy

dandrea.michael@epa.gov

.....